

The American Iris Society

Presentations - Spring 2018

Remote Presentations - Responding to a request in News & Notes, the Logan Iris Society volunteered to be the first testers. Thank you to Charlotte Brennand for helping us quickly prepare this and the other LIS members for being a great audience.

The talk “Using the Iris Encyclopedia” was presented March 22nd incorporating a combination of PowerPoint and live demonstrations of the power of the Iris Encyclopedia. It was streamed live on YouTube using Google Hangouts on Air.

Videos - Using this setup for remote presentations simultaneously creates a YouTube video. We are learning to edit and create clips from this.

Presentations and Presentation Building Blocks - Beginning with a PowerPoint series of 2017 Medal winners, we are assembling slides which could be incorporated into presentations for affiliates or outside groups. Scarlett Ayres contributed an outstanding presentation she uses to show what AIS does.
