

Robins Report
April 19, 2006

The eRobins has been silent for several months. With people heavily using iris talk (iris hort) and iris photos, there appears to not be a need for an additional iris talk website.

The paper robins are still around, but I have not been able to retrieve the information files from the last Robin chair. I have had to start over and am currently trying to contact all of the directors of the individual robins and find out what the current status of each robin is. This process may take some time to figure out. The Robin Invitation To Join's are going out with the new member packets and a few are coming back to me and have been forwarded to the individual robin directors that I do know of.

Susan Boyce
