

Affiliate Liaison

April, 2013

As I start my third year in this position, I find that it has become more of a switchboard than a sounding board.

Most of the communication that comes to me gets routed to another AIS resource. I am getting very few complaints or suggestions. I hope this is a good thing. I am happy to help people find the right resource.

As Liaison, I have sent out basic information and links to the current affiliate presidents. And solicited their input on their issues. I have received very few responses. Those that did respond listed the same chronic problems:

- Recruiting and holding new, active members
- New content for programs

These would be great areas for articles on the blog or in Irides.

As always, I stand ready to do any polling or communication that the Board would like.

Respectfully submitted,

Jody Nolin
